Aids Physically Handicapped Get Jobs

President Eisenhower congratulates Mrs. Sumner G. Whittier after presenting her husband, Veteran's Administrator Sumner G. Whittier with a Distinguished Service Award at the White House yesterday. The award was voted to Whittier by the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped for his efforts on behalf of employing the physically handicapped. (UPI Telephoto)

Good Evening!

Lovely weekend for it.

What, we wouldn't know. Just take your choice and enjoy yourself.

You can also take Echo, chasing itself all over the heavens. Like everybody else, we're getting stiff-necked.

But you know, maybe very fine that the little satellite is attracting so much attention. We've a hunch that a lot of people had forgotten there was still stars in the skies.

What a tragic thing, by the way, should this scheduled Pennsylvania Railroad strike scheduled for next Thursday happen.

Transportation and economy of nearly 30,000,000 people would be affected and 52,000 employees would be without jobs — these in addition to 20,000 members of the Transport Workers Union who called the strike in the first place. Well, the members didn't call it — these strikes are always maneuvered by the top little echelon of dictatorial leaders.

Okay, this is one in which federal mediators should crack down for the benefit of everybody concerned.

Vice President Nixon gets a thunderous ovation in Dixie, the second time he's been welcomed in the you-all country like a long-gone hero. Hey, sub, we thought all the time the South was you-all Democratic!

Jack Kennedy had better start showing his campaign train into high gear.

Pirates lose another one, Braves win another and the league lead is reduced to five and a half. Those Bucs better be remembering they've still got a month to go.

Don't forget our Phillies. They also scrambled to a win yesterday and are now only one game out of seventh.

But the big classic of the whole summer is this afternoon at Williamsport where our Levittown Little Leaguers play Fort Worth for the world championship. Win, lose or draw, those little fellers have done quite a job of it and don't think for a moment Lower Bucks doesn't know.

Just a reminder. You recall Morrisville won the title back in 1955?

All righty. Enjoy a drive during the weekend. But wherever you're driving, be mighty careful all the time. Thank you ma'am.

Go to church tomorrow.

Hope To Close Case Monday

Smith May Hear Early Confession

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Elmo Smith, placed by scientific evidence in the automobile allegedly used in the sex-slating of 16-year-old Maryann Mitchell, stood the chance today of hearing the confession he made after his arrest read to the jury trying him for his life.

Dr. Walter J. Burke, Philadelphia police chemist, testified yesterday that human hairs found in the auto were from Smith's head, a statement which the prosecution contends puts him in the blood-stained car they said the girl was riding in before she was assaulted and killed last Dec. 28.

Burke was to stand cross-examination by defense counsel at the opening of court today. Prosecutor Vincent A. Cirillo, assistant district attorney of Montgomery County, said if there were sufficient time from the planned early afternoon recess for the weekend, he would introduce the confession Smith made and later repudiated.

Hope To Close Case

Cirillo said there was every indication the Commonwealth would close its case by Monday.

The Commonwealth practically put the 40-year-old Smith behind the wheel of what it called the death car when Burke told the jury of nine men and three women that 40 per cent of the human hairs sifted from the front of the stolen auto were those of the twice-paroled convict.

He emphasized that he made the matching of three types of hair from Elmo's head with hair pulled from the blood-spattered automobile by a vacuum cleaner. He enlarged the hairs 210 times with an electric microphoto in his tests, he said.

The police chemist said usually investigators had to be content with only one type of hair, but in Elmo's case it had three.

"There were three different types of hair," Burke testified. "They are the same, both the

Thousands To Welcome LL Team

Lower Bucks County is preparing a big welcome for Levittown's American Little League team tomorrow night.

The Little Leaguers will be returning from today's championship playoff game with Ft. Worth, Texas.

A parade will begin at 7 p.m. at Magnolia Drive and the Levittown Parkway and proceed to the Levittown Shop-A-Rama baseball field, where David Melnick, president of the Levittown Public Recreation Association will present the team with a trophy.

Thousands of area residents are expected to be on hand to join in the "welcome home" festivities.

Team members will be transported by a motorcade of open cars donated by Reedman Motors, Bert Barshay of Windsor Pharmacy; Ray McFadden of Radio station WAAT; Mike Berrie, of the Heart of Trenton; and the Courier-Times.

Accompanying them will be a Marine Corps Color Guard, string bands and drum and bugle corps from Lower Bucks. Local fire companies and rescue squads will also participate.

Each team member will be given a trophy at a banquet sometime in early October. Horace Greeley McNab, account executive and director of public relations from the Levittown Shop-A-Rama, said today.

The trophies, donated by the Levittown Businessmen's Association, are now on display in the window of Pomeroy's Department Store and will be engraved with the names of the individual players.

Members of the association will greet the team when it arrives at the ball park tomorrow night.

Stan Martin, of Radio Station WBCB, will be master of ceremonies.

Castro Regime Target

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — A task force made up of four small nations drafted a resolution early today strongly condemning Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's interference in Western Hemisphere problems as a threat to the Americas.

The ministers of the small task force held a 12-hour uninterrupted session before reaching a final draft which was to be submitted later today to the full 10-nation committee that was given the assignment of drafting the resolution.

Chile, which authored the resolution with Colombia, Mexico and Uruguay, was added to the 10-country working group.

The resolution incorporated Colombia's proposal directing all member states to comply with all the rules of the Western Hemisphere's system of cooperation.

Aimed At Castro

Although the resolution did not specifically name Cuba, observers said it was clearly aimed at the Castro regime's acceptance of Soviet protection.

The resolution apparently satisfied the United States delegation, but it was not known what Cuba's reaction would be to the strong measure.

However, the consensus among the diplomats here was that the deadlock has been broken and the conference is expected to end by Sunday or by Monday at the latest.

The inclusion of the explicit condemnation of Khrushchev's offer last month to support Cuba with rockets in the event of United States aggression was made unexpectedly by Mexico's Foreign Minister Manuel Tello.

Condemns Red Threat

The document circulated this morning among 20 ministers: —Called for energetic condemnation of Khrushchev's statement threatening the security of the Western Hemisphere which violated inter-American principles. —Firmly rejected any outside intervention which in the slightest way might attempt to break hemisphere solidarity and reaffirmed that no state may impose on another its political and economic policies. —Emphasized that a totalitarian regime, whether left or right, (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Nixon Pleased With Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, declaring that "the Kennedy-Johnson ticket is in real trouble in the South," challenged the Democrats today to hold their Dixie stronghold against intensified GOP campaigning.

As a result of his one-day trip to Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., yesterday, Nixon ordered another look at Republican campaign plans to put even more emphasis on wooing normally-Democratic southern states.

The Republican presidential nominee said in a statement on his return last night that "the size of the crowds and their enthusiasm exceeded the highest estimates we had received in advance."

The total Atlanta turnout, which astounded most observers, was estimated at 150,000 by police and even more by others.

Where To Register

Voters who wish to register in time to cast their ballots in the November elections may appear before the traveling Bucks County Registration Commission on the dates and at the locations indicated below. The hours each registration day will be from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

No party changes will be permitted until Dec. 8, one month after the general elections.

Mrs. Powers Visits Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Mrs. Barbara Powers today sought temporary distraction among the f a m o u s sights of Paris from fresh memories of a Moscow prison farewell and the prospect of years of loneliness without her husband.

The hazel-eyed wife of imprisoned U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was spending a few days here "to get my mind off things" before returning to her home in Millidgeville, Ga., to await Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev's reply to her clemency appeal.

Her husband, who was recently convicted in Moscow on an espionage charge, was sentenced to 10 years loss of freedom. The first three years will be spent in prison and the remainder in a labor camp.

Police On Lookout Dog Kills Five Sheep In Northampton Twp.

Someone in the Northampton Township area owns a dog that is killing sheep.

The dog has already killed five sheep. Both the dog and the owner are being sought by sheepmen, Northampton police and by Tilghman Oswald, state dog law investigator.

If the dog — or any dog in the Township, licensed or unlicensed — is found running between sunrise and sunset, it stands a good chance of being shot. If the owner is found, he is financially liable for damages. Oswald has declared.

In Event Of Strike PRR To Furlough 52,000 Employees

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Pennsylvania Railroad made plans today to furlough 52,000 employees and discontinue passenger and freight service in the face of a threatened strike of some 20,000 maintenance employees Sept. 1.

The PRR said the scheduled walkout of the members of the Transport Workers Union (TWU) and the system federation would idle the nation's largest railroad for the first time in its 114-year history. It said the strike would have an economic effect on some 30 million persons along the system's lines from New York to St. Louis.

Passenger Reservations

The company announced Friday that it would discontinue accepting long distance passenger reservations next Tuesday. All freight lines, especially those carrying perishable items, would discontinue service some time Wednesday to afford producers ample time to divert cargo to other means of transportation, the PRR said.

Notices also were posted that the railroad's 52,000 operating and other personnel would be furloughed in the event of the strike.

Meet Monday

Michael J. Quill, international president of the TWU, announced he will come here Monday in a last-ditch session with the company and the federal mediators in the three-year dispute over "scope rules" which govern working conditions.

But Quill said earlier that unless the company reverses its position, the strike Sept. 1 is a "certainty."

A. J. Greenough, PRR president, repeated yesterday the company has made substantial concessions on 26 of the 27 major points in the dispute and has gone as far as can be expected.

The company said in announcing the strike preparation measures, the Florida Special from Miami to New York would make its final round-trip run beginning Tuesday night to avoid stranding passengers in the event of a walkout. Other distance lines will halt operations shortly thereafter.

James P. Newell, PRR vice president, said the threatened strike would affect 136,000 riders — including 73,000 commuters — who use the railroad daily on 722 trains.

It'll Be Clear And Pleasant

Generally clear skies and pleasant temperatures were forecast for Pennsylvania today, tonight and tomorrow.

Tonight's lows will range from the low 50's in mountain areas to the low or mid 60's elsewhere.

Afternoon readings tomorrow will again be in the 80's over all sections.

The state's weather patterns were dominated by a ridge of high pressure extending from West Virginia to Long Island. This system was expected to continue to produce pleasant weather conditions across most of the state through tomorrow.

Man Killed As Car Careens 1,000 Feet

SHERANDOAH, Pa. (UPI) — Leo Burke, 49, of nearby Shaft, was killed last night when he lost control of his automobile on Route 45 near his home, and the car struck a parked auto, a utility pole and a guard rail.

Investigators said Burke's auto careened about 1,000 feet after striking the parked car, crashed against the utility pole, which snapped off at the base, and then swerved back across the highway and came to rest against the guard rail.

U.S. Swim Team Smashes World Mark

ROME (UPI) — The United States 400 meter medley swim relay team of Bob Bennett, Dave Gillanders, Paul Hait and Steve Clark smashed the world record with a qualifying clocking of 4:08.2 in the Olympics today. The old record was 4:10.4, set by Australia in 1958.

New Police Barracks Job Is Delayed

The new State Police Barracks along with its driver testing center at Route 1 and the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Treviso is expected to open within the next month.

Richard J. O'Donnell, director of the Bureau of Engineering, Pennsylvania Department of Properties and Supplies, today said the station will open when the construction of the sewer lines is completed. O'Donnell said that the station had been scheduled to open the latter part of July.

He said the delay was caused by the failure of negotiations with the Hankin Brothers who are the contractors for the adjoining George Washington Motor Lodge.

Cost Too High

The state had originally planned to link sewer lines from the police barracks with the motor lodge's lines. However, the state and Hankin Brothers couldn't come to an agreement, O'Donnell said, adding that the cost of the project would be too high.

O'Donnell said that he recently contracted for the barracks to have its own septic tanks.

Construction is now under way, he said, and the contractors, are presently awaiting the delivery of pumps sometime within the next week.

Once the pumps are delivered, construction of the system should be completed two to three weeks after that, the director said.

O'Donnell indicated that the septic tanks would be a temporary system and that permanent sewer lines would be laid sometime in the future.

The Hankin Brothers are presently laying sewer lines under the Turnpike. The line will link with the Nottingham sewer line near Route 1 and Street Road.

Stork Club Seeks $5 Million Damages

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club is seeking $5 million damages from Actors Equity Association in a suit charging the theatrical performers' union persuaded stage and screen celebrities to boycott a cocktail party at the restaurant.

The suit, filed in New York charged that persons invited to the party stayed away after they received telegrams from Angus Duncan, executive secretary of Actors Equity.

The Stork Club charged that Duncan informed those invited to the party of a lengthy labor dispute between the Stork Club and some of its employees and urged them to "weigh stork club invitation most carefully."

Outbreak Of Name Calling Racial Tension Mounts In South

By United Press International
Racial tension and incidents of violence appeared to be on the upsurge again in the South today with the opening of public schools for the fall term only a few days away.

Emergency police patrols covered Jacksonville, Fla., after an outbreak of name calling hair pulling, pushing and shoving between whites and Negroes at five downtown stores.

A white minister in Mississippi, who refused to halt plans for building a small college for Negroes, hid out today at a hospital in Meridian, Miss., under police guard. He said he was beaten and kicked by a mob of about 20 white men, but police denied any knowledge of the affair.

Officials at Clinton, Tenn., said a full-time armed guard has been hired to patrol the new $75,000 Clinton High School where 14 Negroes are among the 925 pupils. The Clinton High School was destroyed by dynamite when integration began in 1958, and rewards for information about the bombers now total $60,700.

Classes To Integrate
But in Houston, Tex., school Supt. John McFarland announced today that classes in the city's independent district, the nation's largest segregated section, would integrate its first-grade classes Sept. 7.

McFarland's statement followed refusal yesterday by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to accept the Houston school board's request to delay a federal court integration order until an appeal can be decided.

If the Houston school district integrates, it may lose about $6 million in state aid because a state law prohibits desegregation without approval of the voters. Recently Texas voters rejected integration by a large margin.

The Jacksonville trouble began when Negroes began picketing stores which stayed open late for big August sales. Carloads of city and county police dispersed the crowds and arrested at least nine Negroes.

Charged With Assault
Two of those arrested were held and the others released. One of them, Herbert Green, 18, was charged with assault with intent to murder after allegedly pulling a knife.

At Meridian, the Rev. J. H. Germany, a missionary of the Church of God of Anderson, Ind., was hospitalized with cuts and bruises. He said he was beaten by a mob of white men while he and four Negroes were loading bricks to be used in construction of a small college for Negroes near Union, Miss.

About 1,600 white residents of the Union area held a protest meeting last Saturday and adopted a resolution charging that Germany was building the school to stir up racial strife in hopes it would bring publicity that would result in financial donations.

Union Police Chief George Smith said he knew nothing about the beating. The man identified by Germany as the ringleader also denied any knowledge of the incident but added that "somebody down at the barbershop told me this afternoon that a brick will fall on Germany."

Backs Kennedy Ticket

AFL-CIO Kicks Off Four-Point Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO kicked off a four-point political program today to back up its sweeping endorsement of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Only the dissent of Negro union leader A. Philip Randolph marred the all-out support voted for the Democratic slate yesterday by the AFL-CIO's 170-man general board.

Randolph, president of the Sleeping Car Porters and a commanding figure in the Negro community, advocated creation of a labor party or at least AFL-CIO neutrality in the White House race.

Some AFL-CIO political experts expressed concern over Randolph's possible influence on the critical big city Negro voting areas in the North.

But AFL-CIO President George Meany rejected any third party talk and predicted union leaders would work with "real enthusiasm" to advance the cause of presidential nominee John F. Kennedy and his running mate, Sen. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson.

No officials of two big unions—the million-member Machinists and the 800,000-member Carpenters—were present at the endorsement session.

The Machinists claimed their leaders were busy preparing for a convention. But other AFL-CIO officials tagged them "holdouts" from the Kennedy camp. The Carpenters rarely participate in AFL-CIO political affairs, partly because their president, M. A. Hutcheson, is a Republican.

AFL-CIO leaders charted this four-point political course for its 135 affiliated unions:

—Increase voting registration of union members.

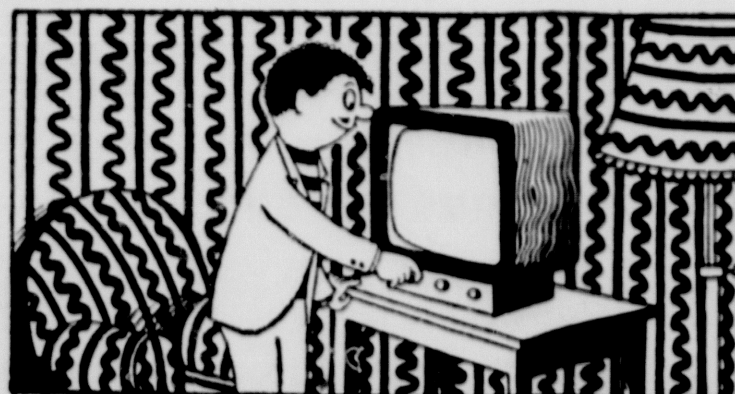

—Circulate AFL-CIO Kennedy-Nixon comparative voting "scorecards" as widely as possible.

—Step up efforts to obtain a $1 political donation from each union member.

—Urge members to make additional contributions to promote the election of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

In 1956, the AFL-CIO supported Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson for the White House although Meany and some other union chieftains were reluctant to endorse anyone. The endorsement finally was given in August after considerable discussion.

Feasterville Girl's Pet Monkey Lost

If you should happen to run into a monkey named Drug anywhere in the Feasterville area this weekend, don't be alarmed.

Just take him by the hand and lead him back to 2047 Shadybrook Lane, Feasterville, where a little girl named Sandy will give him a prodigious welcome home.

Drug, whose name is pronounced Droog and is from the Russian meaning "when," escaped Thursday night from the home of Sandy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pollock. A two-night and one-day search of the area by the parents, Sandy and all the kids in the neighborhood so far has failed to find him.

Mustard Color
Drug is a tufted squirrel monkey from South America, a mustard color with a darker belt around his waist.

He eats anything and everything and he can be lured by a banana if you should happen to have one in your pocket. Barring an attack from a dog or cat, he can get along all right by himself in the area woods, at least until the nights get a bit colder.

Sandy bought him with the baby-sitting money she'd saved for over a year. She's heartbroken, her parents say. So if you see a monkey named Drug—

Pixieland To Open On Bristol's Mill St.

Pixieland, a haven for all the little pixies who heretofore have wandered up and down Mill St. Bristol, with their mothers on shopping tours, will open within the next two weeks, the Mill St. Businessmen's Association announced today.

Pixieland actually will be a shop where baby-sitting will be provided for Mill St. shoppers. It's to be situated near the eastern end of Mill St. and it will provide trained supervision, proper sanitation and, the merchants hope, various forms of entertainment at times to be announced.

A sign announcing the service will go up early next week on the storefront.

Tree Falls, Causes Eddington Power Failure

Eight hundred homes in Eddington, were without electricity from 12:15 to 12:44 a.m. this morning when a tree felled a 4,000 volt power line, on Dunksberry Road, east of State Road, electric company officials reported.

New Location Philharmonic Concerts Slated For Wilson High

The Delaware Valley Philharmonic Orchestra Association will present its 1960-61 season performances in the Woodrow Wilson Senior High School Auditorium in Levittown, it was announced today.

A new and more central location enabling a greater number of people to attend was given as the reason for the new location. Past performances have been held at Neshaminy High School.

A spokesman for the association cited the acoustics and seating arrangements of the building, located at Green Lane and Mill Creek Road, as "among the finest in the area."

Six Performances
Tentative dates have been set for the six scheduled performances, all of which will be held on Sunday afternoons at 3 p.m. The schedule will be released soon, the spokesman said.

A nursery for infants and preschool children will be maintained by registered nurses with the aid of members of the Delaware Valley Junior Symphony Orchestra.

The Philharmonic orchestra is in the process of establishing a board of governors. The board will be composed of community leaders in Lower Bucks County, the spokesman said.

"The contributions of time, effort and donations of these community leaders will enable the orchestra to enter a new phase in its seven year existence," the spokesman said.

The orchestra's board of directors will meet at 1 Spindletree Road, Levittown, 8:15 p.m., Monday.

Man, 67, Satisfactory After Clawing By Bear

A 67-year-old Story Book Zoo caretaker was reported in satisfactory condition last night at Lower Bucks County Hospital after being clawed and bitten by a bear yesterday afternoon.

Charles Poppa of Parkland suffered a mangled left leg and lost considerable blood after he was attacked by a 430-pound brown Canadian bear, while cleaning the animal's cage at the Route 1 zoo.

Bernard Bertollet, zoo owner, with whom Poppa lives, said the caretaker apparently neglected to have the bear enter another cage before beginning his cleaning chores. The zoo owner said he found the man lying on the floor of the cage, the bear standing over him.

Bertollet forced the bear away with a pole, pulled Poppa from the cage and drove him to the hospital.

The ministers were reported to have persuaded the United States to go along with a collective statement reiterating that the Organization of American States (OAS) charter guarantees territorial integrity to all member states in exchange for a flat renunciation of Soviet intervention by Cuba.

Divers Pull 'Body' From Lake, Firemen Answer Four 'Alarms'

By KENNETH J. RABBen

About 10 p.m. last night, Falls Township's Civil Defense Headquarters was told a "body" had been sighted in Lake Caroline, on the Levittown Parkway in Fairless Hills.

Within minutes, ambulances, a Fairless Hills Fire Company truck, with strong search lights, communications cars and skin divers were on their way to the scene. A motor rescue boat from the fire company raced to the lake.

Arriving at the lake's edge, six divers donned their black suits, lead weights, flippers, face masks and air tanks and plunged into the inky water that quickly engulfed them. Several men entered the water wearing swim suits, breathing through scuba tubes. Twelve other divers lined the shore, waiting to assist, preparing a litter and readying ropes to aid those in the water. Minutes passed rapidly by and shortly, the searchlight beams disclosed the divers silently swimming to shore with the "victim."

'Body' Removed

Strong hands tossed ropes to the suited swimmers, the litter was rushed to the lake edge and the "body" expertly removed to a waiting ambulance. A radio message reported a "fire" and CD personnel raced on through the night to their next chore.

Almost 200 Falls Township Civil Defense personnel, rescue squad members, firemen, police and Boy Scouts joined forces last night to participate in the largest and most comprehensive CD drill held this year.

The drill began at about 5:30 p.m. and continued through the night, operations concluding about 1 a.m. CD workers answered four fire alarms, in addition to the Lake Caroline rescue, checked communication facilities, established an emergency hospital at the Fairless Hills golf course and treated casualties in a building at the intersection of Trenton Road and Levittown Parkway.

No Sirens Used

Radiological survey teams scoured the area, roping off "contaminated" regions. Falls Township telephones jangled throughout the night with residents calling to ask why so many flashing red lights had passed their homes. No sirens were used during the exercise.

Colonel Arthur M. Heritage, County CD director and Brad Algeo, county communications director, visited the Falls CD headquarters in the Yardley Ave., Fallsington Municipal Building early in the evening.

Both men said they were impressed with the drill's smooth operation and quiet efficiency displayed by the workers.

Township supervisors traveled with CD personnel most of the night. Chairman said it was the best drill ever held by the Falls unit.

Greatly Pleased

"I was greatly pleased with the way things went. Our CD people are to be congratulated on their outstanding job. Mrs. Eleanor Donehew did a superb job of organizing all those who assisted during the drill," Berkes stated.

Forty-five CD people took part in the exercise. They were assisted by the Levittown Fire Company No. 1, Fairless Hills Volunteer Fire Company and the Fallsington Fire Company. The Levittown-Fairless Hills Rescue squad provided six radio cars, nurses, ambulances, cots and other hospital facilities and a crew of 18 skin divers. Scouts from Troops 40, 90 and 150 served as "casualties."

Communications

A mobile radio communications truck was provided by the County CD organization. Three radio wave lengths were in operation at the CD communications center. CD personnel were on one radio, rescue squad personnel on another and fire fighters turned to yet another band. Radio operators at each set speed messages between units.

Mrs. Margaret Conner, Tullytown Borough CD, director took part in the exercise as an observer.
